

The stacks contain 50,000 circulating and non-circulating materials and are organized according to the Library of Congress Classification system.¹ Each book has its own call number.² Stools³ help people access hard to reach materials. Books can be reviewed at the study area or checked out at the circulation desk. Additional books can be found using the research stations.

-
- 1 Books are organized by subject. Printed signs help users navigate through the stacks.
 - 2 Call numbers identify the books by subject and author.
 - 3 There are 14 rolling stools in the library stacks.